All Temporary Loans Made By The Board Last Year Have Been Paid

BUILDINGS ARE O. K.

Miss Cecilia Snyder Reports 105 Aliens and 77 Illiterates In the District

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 7.—Members of Bensalem Township School Board, meeting at the high school here in the first regular Fall meeting of the year, learned that receipt of taxes up to the present time is somewhat lower than for the same period last year, but all temporary loans that were made last year have been paid in full by this year's taxes.

All members of the Board were present with Oscar Schreiber, Trevese, president, in the chair. Most of the session was devoted to regular committee reports and other routine business.

William Abel, treasurer, presented the treasurer's report. Joseph Sharpe, chairman of the cafeteria, reported this department of the school working very efficiently under the new management of Mrs. Helen Luciana.

Mr. Schreiber, reporting for the Building and Grounds committee, stated that every building in the township was in good shape. Grading at the Trevese school was the biggest item and this has been completed.

William Lange, chairman of the Activities committee, reported the Fall athletic schedule at the high school in full swing, with football and hockey being the major sports at present.

Miss Cecilia Snyder gave the enrollment and enumeration report. There are 1202 pupils in the public schools in the township. She further reported that there are 105 aliens and 77 illiterates in the district.

Board members were informed that S. K. Faust, superintendent of Bensalem schools, is rapidly improving from his recent illness and is expected back in the next few weeks.

The attendance report indicated an increased enrollment in every school. All new teachers in the district were reported as having very efficiently begun their duties as instructors in the district.

Home Arts Class Marks Its First Anniversary

CROYDON, Oct. 7.—An enjoyable time was had Wednesday by a number of women of Croydon when they celebrated the first anniversary of the home arts class, meeting each Wednesday in the Croydon Fire House, and which is in charge of Mrs. Lillian Toudy as instructor, under supervision of the education and recreation division of the WPA.

A display was arranged of articles made and completed during the year and this was open for the public from 10 until one and from 5 to 7 p. m. The hours intervening were spent in the class celebration in which the women participated with recitations, solo dances, singing of two class and greeting songs, the words of which were written by Kay Wisler, the class secretary and treasurer.

A dinner prepared by the untiring efforts of Mrs. Seddon and Mrs. Mossbrook (class members) was served to about 35 guests who were entertained by a three-piece orchestra, and by brief messages of congratulations from Wm. Algor, Bucks county supervisor, Education and Recreation Division, and Mrs. Ida Weedon, Lower Bucks County unit supervisor, official guests.

This class meets from two to five p. m. each Wednesday in Croydon Fire station and is open to any desiring instruction in arts and crafts.

JUDGE JAMES RAPS EFFORT TO LURE ROOSEVELT TO TOUR PENNA.

CLEARFIELD, Oct. 7.—The excursion of Pennsylvania Democratic leaders to the Hyde Park home of President Roosevelt yesterday was an effort to have him and his "name and prestige as a cloak for corruption at Harrisburg—for him to take a brush and join the whitewash brigade."

So Superior Court Judge Arthur H. James, Republican nominee for Governor, told Clearfield county voters last night in commenting upon the efforts of Senator Joseph F. Guffey and Democratic nominees for State-wide offices to have Mr. Roosevelt come into Pennsylvania and campaign in their behalf.

If Mr. Roosevelt came into Pennsylvania, the jurist said here after a tour of Centre county, he would be "placing his indorsement upon racketeering in administration of State affairs, upon racketeering in labor affairs that itself is an unholy stench that has enraged the working people of the State."

Following the rally at the county courthouse here, Judge James sped to DuBois, 25 miles northwest of this community, to address another large rally. In Centre county, prior to his

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES
Monday, May 16, 1938

EDITORIAL FROM ADIRONDACK DAILY ENTERPRISE, MAY 10, 1938

Mr. Bridges: Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have inserted in the RECORD an editorial from the Adirondack Daily Enterprise of May 10, 1938, entitled "Sweet Dreams."

There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SWEET DREAMS

(By Jean Bigler, St. Lawrence University, 1939)

Last night we dreamed that Mr. Roosevelt suddenly saw the light of sanity and with his fireside in front of him chatted the following "chat":

"My friends, we are now in the sixth year of my none-too-successful administration. While I have tried my best to bring the Nation out of the chaos of 'recession,' the specialist royalists and the 12 most radical families have had such a deleterious effect on me that my administration has not even been able to blunder through.

"Where are we now? I tell you frankly we are in the same position as when I took office. I have squandered approximately twenty billions of your hard-earned dollars.

"I have plowed your crops under, burned your cotton, and dumped your wheat into the rivers, and blighted the lives of your unborn pigs. For 6 years I have promised you a balanced Budget, governmental efficiency, and reduced taxation. We have had none of them.

"To keep my colleagues at the helm of this great Nation I have erected post offices, bridges, and schools in every corner of the land. I have furnished substantial shovels for our young men to lean upon.

"We are still in office, but heavy taxation has so numbed your senses that you have almost forgotten that I do not want to be a dictator.

"I have foisted upon the banks of the country such a load of restrictions that they are hardly able to function, at the same time exhorting them to make credit easy.

"I have bled the utility companies white with taxes to keep my bureaucracy going, and at the same time have maintained that the very devil himself is the sole owner of such companies.

"My red tape has practically strangled millions of small-business men. By relieving corporations of their surpluses, I have also spared them the responsibility of fostering 'useless' research.

"Undoubtedly one of my greatest achievements has been to create more class hatred than has ever existed at any previous time in the home of the free and the land of the brave.

"Comfort by $500,000 taken from the hands of fellow miners. I have sat by and watched my good friend, John L. Lewis, carry on an emotional and highly unintelligent war between labor and capital—a war which the majority on neither side desires.

"In conclusion, friends and neighbors, I emphasize the fact that my colleagues and I have planned it this way. We now have 10,000,000 people unemployed, as did my Republican predecessor. We have tons of useless gold stored in various holes in Kentucky and elsewhere.

"We have purchased carloads of silver for a price higher than we could get if we were to sell it. Business is at a standstill, and the Federal debt is approximately $40,000,000,000. Young men and women are not able to take their rightful place in society.

"Who is to blame? The Republicans? No. The economic royalists? No. I say to you, my friends, such men as Ickes, Wallace, Hopkins, Cohen, and myself are probably responsible, but, remember, we planned it this way."

P. S.—And then we woke up.

The installation of officers elected at the June meeting will be conducted by Mrs. John Flood, of New Hope, P. T. A. county chairman, at that time. Last year the association undertook the task of providing eye and dental care for needy children in the school. It has been agreed to continue this worthwhile work.

Chairmen and co-chairmen of standing committees are: Program, James Fitzcharles; finance, Louis Jammer; membership, Mrs. Horace B. Quick; Mrs. William T. Woodhouse; hospital-ity, Mrs. Vaughn Grundy; Mrs. Norman Conover; study group, Mrs. James H. Fitzcharles; Mrs. William H. Pearson; entertainment, Mrs. David Schuster, and publicity, Carl F. Ogren.

Crowded Conditions Are Experienced in School

Continued crowded conditions in Croydon public school were reported at the meeting of the Bristol Township board of directors, last evening.

The large number of pupils there enrolled, the board reports, will probably make it necessary to transport additional pupils to Edgely, and possibly the hiring of another teacher.

A second school bus has been ordered, and with the placing of the new one in service upon its delivery will make two buses in operation in the township. Allison Tibbetts, Newportville, was appointed as a driver for the second bus.

William Smyrl, president, presided at the meeting in Maple Shade school. All members were present.

WANTS TO ESTABLISH SEVERAL BUS ROUTES

Owner of Burlington-Bristol Bus Desires to Operate Between Here and Co. Seat

ALSO HERE TO TRENTON

The owner and operator of the Burlington-Bristol Bus which begins operation tomorrow has also on file with the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania an application to operate bus lines from Bristol to Newtown and from Trenton to Newtown and from Newtown to Doylestown. These applications, according to Alfred J. Ferraro, owner and operator, have been on file since April 19th. No action has been taken by the Commission.

There is also an application before the Commission by the Neibauer Bus Company for permission to operate a bus route between Bristol and Newtown.

In his application Mr. Ferraro petitions for the privilege to operate buses from Bristol through Croydon, Newportville, Halmerville, South Langhorne, Langhorne, Langhorne Manor to Newtown. Other buses would operate between Trenton, Morrisville, Yardley, Newtown, Wrightstown, Penn's Park, Pineville, Buckingham and Doylestown.

This would afford residents from the lower section of Bucks County bus facilities between Bristol and Doylestown, the County Seat.

There appears to be a strong sentiment for bus facilities between the lower and middle sections of Bucks County.

With the bus service now established between Burlington and Bristol and the proposed routes, there would be bus service from points in New Jersey into Doylestown.

Addresses Exchange Club About "Bees"

Dr. Alfred Doty, of the Rohm & Haas Co., was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Exchange Club held in the Elks' Home last evening. His subject was "Bees and Bee Keeping."

A representative of the Boy Scouts was also present to outline plans for the drive for Scouting campaign which will begin in the near future.

Dr. Doty's talk on the life of bees was extremely interesting, many points on their habits being explained that were unknown to the average layman.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938, by The Baltimore Sun)

Crossed Wires

Washington, Oct. 6.

NOT much is being said about it but at the moment there is a rather strained feeling between some of Mr. Roosevelt's slicker political strategists and some of the leaders among the radicals who have been his consistent and ardent supporters. It is a situation not altogether devoid of humor.

ACCUSTOMED to fairly close cooperation in the matter of Administration publicity, the Munich conference and the so-called Chamberlain peace curiously impelled these two groups in widely different directions. Before they know it their wires had gotten crossed and neither was able to proceed along its chosen path without conflict with the other. For example, immediately the threatened war had been definitely averted, the White House propagandists, always with an eye out for such things, saw a chance to capitalize politically the President's appeals to Hitler and Mussolini as having been the really effective instrument by which peace was preserved.

WHEN each of these groups of Roosevelt supporters realized what the other was doing there was considerable irritation on both sides.

Held On Arson Charge

Doylestown, Oct. 7.—Adam Greenberg, 55, well-known proprietor of The Black Cat Inn, located 15 miles north of Doylestown on Easton Pike, today was committed to Bucks County Prison on a charge of arson, by Justice of Peace W. Carlisle Hobensack.

Greenberg was accused of firing the building with attempt to defraud an insurance company. Private P. R. Gow-an, of the State Motor Police, who investigated the fire after it broke out yesterday, testified he found Greenberg running around the place in his night clothing, and that seven separate fires were discovered in the building. Gow-an said also that 100 quart bottles of gasoline, wrapped in gas-soaked rags, were discovered scattered throughout the building.

Held without bail for the next term of Bucks County Court, Greenberg denied the charge and added that he knew nothing about the gasoline, and said somebody apparently had attempted to kill him.

State Police stated that Greenberg has the place insured for $4,000.

Annenberg."

PUNY MAN LOOKS UP

Measured in dollars and cents, astronomy appears to be a study that is a waste of time. In fact, it sometimes has been called the most useless of the sciences. On a syllabus of elective college courses, astronomy appears as a "snap" to students who think that all they have to do is gaze through a telescope, only to find to their sorrow that nine-tenths of their job is drudgery in higher mathematics. Astronomy is far from a waste of time; it is one of the most civilizing of all developments of culture, according to Dr. Frederick Slocum, director of Van Vleck Observatory, Wesleyan University, who reminds us that this science has freed mankind of many fears and superstitions and is further justified by its material service to mankind in navigation, exploration, time determination and other valuable applications of knowledge gained by study of the heavens.

The earth, for all our vaunted mightiness, is but a speck in the universe, and is studied best by those who realize our individual insignificance and the fact of our continued existence in relation to the general scheme. Astronomy may be only a feeble groping of mankind into the darkness of the world about us, but we cannot hope to pierce the veil unless we try.

With the fashioning of more and more new devices we have seen deeper into microcosms and farther into the macrocosm than ever before. The mysteries of life and the universe may remain mysteries until the day when this planet is burned out, but until that day we shall keep on trying to find out. Because of that urge of man to know, astronomy is becoming, in the opinion of many educators and scientists, the most advanced outpost of the search for knowledge. The announced purpose of a large group of educators is to increase the serious interest of students in this field.

Astronomy has taught mankind to fear no longer the comets and eclipses which terrified our ancestors in the dim reaches of the past; it has developed spherical trigonometry and the calculus, built the foundation of physics and dynamics, encouraged the efforts to perfect the telescope, contributed to the theories of optics and the application of those theories; found helium in the sun and led to the discovery of helium in the United States, and played a vital role in the drama of relativity.

It is possible that this field of scientific study, so often looked down upon as the most useless of the sciences, may yet prove to be the stone in the edifice of learning which the builders rejected but which came to be the cornerstone.

Each day abroad now seems an eternity. As Leacock has truly said it takes a long, long time to bring the present up to the future.

REPAIR FURNITURE AND RESTORE IT TO REAL USEFULNESS

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)
Attics and storage places in many Bucks county homes often are guilty of harboring worthwhile pieces of furniture—chairs that need reupholstering or new upholstery.
Satisfaction is derived using something discarded or stored away. Take a peep into the attic or storage room. You may find just the chair you want for the desk but it may require a slip cover, refinishing, or reupholstering. Reupholstering may be done at home and if well done means a saving of money. Mending and refinishing the frame often are necessary before undertaking the upholstery. For best results, follow each step carefully.

1. Remove old covering, packing, and all tacks. This is important because the foundation should be firm and there should be room for new ticking. Observe every detail of construction as you remove the old materials. Save the springs and the best of the padding to use again. Thoroughly wash these with strong soap suds and wipe the springs with an oiled cloth to prevent rusting.

2. If webbing has been used for the foundation, replace with new and pull tight.

3. Arrange springs on webbing as in the old foundation and sew in place with mattress twine or heavy linen thread, then tie tops of springs with spring cord.

4. Over the top of tied springs, tack a covering of firm material, such as ticking, canvas, or feed sacks to the frame.

5. Lay packing evenly and as thick as desired over the lining. Be sure it is pulled out to cover the sharp edges of the frame. The packing may be hair, moss, tow fiber, or excelsior. Cover this with a layer of cotton or piece of an old quilt to prevent bristles of packing from working up through the surface covering.

6. Tack tightly a second lining of felt or flour sacks or muslin over the packing and cotton to hold them in place.

7. Tack in place the final covering of tapestry, denim, jasper cloth, or other upholstery fabric.

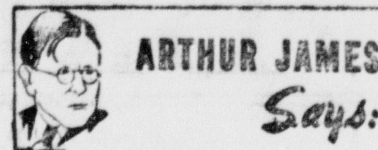

8. To finish the edge, turn in the material and tack it in place on the frame, or cover the edge with cord or other upholstery trimming and tack to the frame.

EDGELY

"We need thrift and economy in our State Government. Nothing would do more to help the status of both workers and the unemployed than for the State Government to inspire the confidence of business and thus put idle wheels and idle money back to work. Once the idle money of our State starts to work, men will start to work. "Thrift in government leads to tax reduction. Tax reduction speeds the wheels of industry, and this, in turn, speeds up employment and recovery."

A sense of frustration set in. Obviously, if the first class went ahead with their claim that this was a peace brought about by Our Great President, they would be compelled to defend themselves and him against the serious charges of the second class that the peace was the product of the basest treachery, that the whole performance had earned the contempt of all right thinking men—particularly "liberals."

—O—

ON THE OTHER HAND, if the radicals persisted in picturing the peace as abominable, then they ultimately would have to repudiate the White House notion that Mr. Roosevelt had played the really important part in bringing it about. Or they must include him in their indictment. Under the circumstances, it was necessary that one side retreat or both become ridiculous. That it was the White House forces with their peace propaganda which gave way was to have been expected. The reasons are clear. In the first place, their contention that this was a Roosevelt peace was essentially spurious. In the second place, they had, themselves, no conviction on their subject comparable to that of the radicals on theirs.

THE two appeals of the President undoubtedly were fine, timely and effective and he deserves full credit for what he did, how and when. Nevertheless, while it is true that Hitler and Mussolini each did about what Mr. Roosevelt urged and the result of the Munich conference—an agreement through negotiation and without resort to force—was exactly what he had asked, the facts definitely prove that Mussolini had interceded with Hitler before—and not after—he got the Roosevelt note. In view of this—and other facts—it does seem slightly fatuous to claim that the agreement was brought about by the force of the President's appeals. Yet that was the argument a few days ago and it would still be actively asserted had it not become apparent that to push it meant more or less violent collision with cherished radical allies who are in a high state of fever.

HENCE, the propaganda which seemingly started out to make the President a candidate for the Nobel peace prize has been discontinued. The stories which began "The extraordinary effect of President Roosevelt's peace proposals abroad has completely restored his political prestige at home" are not being followed up. Other ways of capitalizing the great public desire for peace are being explored, the idea being that Mr. Roosevelt soon may make some other gesture—perhaps along disarmament lines—which could be effectively cashed in. However, that first movement to call the peace the Roosevelt peace has lapsed. They are going to let Mr. Chamberlain have it. In this connection it is worth noting that the strongest commendation of Mr. Roosevelt's appeals came from anti-New Deal Democrats and critics of the Administration, who have found little else he has done in the past five years to praise.

MORRISVILLE FATHERS PLAN YEAR'S MEETINGS

To Procure Estimates On Trophy Case, Spotlight for Stage, Etc.

A BUSY SEASON AHEAD

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 7.—When outlining their plans for the Fall and Winter, the Morrisville Fathers Club of Morrisville schools arranged for a fathers' and sons' banquet, Christmas party for the children, open meetings for the general public, and other events.

The first session will be on October 17th. On that date members will meet in the gymnasium. This will be known as "Men's Night" and will be for members only. Markus Ketcham is general chairman and will be assisted by Lewis Wright and Alvin R. Pratt. The refreshments will be in charge of Paul Nichols, John Tiernen and William Schofield.

The fathers' and sons' banquet will be held Monday night, November 21, with William H. Howell, Markus Ketcham, Paul Nichols and Marvin Young in charge. The affair will either be held in the school cafeteria or the gymnasium. There will be entertainment and speakers.

The annual Christmas party for children will be held in the school gymnasium Wednesday night, December 21. William Schofield, Howell Windle, Alvan R. Pratt, John Tiernen and Lewis Wright will be in charge.

Other programs will be arranged for January 18, February 15, March 15 and April 17. William W. O'Neill was appointed a committee to procure estimates for the purchase of a trophy case for the school, and Paul Nichols is to ascertain the cost of a spotlight for the stage in the school auditorium. Howell Windle will report on the needs of the musical organizations of the school at the next meeting.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Pennsylvania's wide range in agricultural activity is nowhere more strikingly illustrated than in the fact that it has been necessary for farm experts to divide the State into 25 separate and distinct farming areas. These areas range in character from sections where a diversified farming is practiced to other sections where only a single crop is harvested.

Outstanding among the types of farming practiced in our State are: dairying; the growing of vegetables, fruits, mushrooms and tobacco, and the raising of chickens, cattle and sheep.

There are several reasons for this diversification of farming. Foremost, of course, are the physical differences in the various sections of the State—differences in topography, in soil and in climate. Then, too, proximity of markets has played an important part in determining the character of farming in certain areas. For instance, most of northeastern Pennsylvania engages in dairying because of its nearness to New York City, which can consume at least as much milk as this area can produce.

Will this diversification of farming continue? The best answer to this may be gained from the findings of the Pennsylvania State College Agricultural Experiment Station. Basing their conclusions on a vast amount of research, they have discovered the following eight significant trends in Pennsylvania farming:

1. Dairying and poultry raising are likely to increase, while hogs will be grown in certain parts of the State mostly for local consumption. Beef cattle and sheep production will probably continue to decline slowly in those areas where they are still important.

2. Crop production will no doubt be directed more toward the growing of dairy and poultry feeds rather than of cereals for sale.

3. The decline in the production of timothy hay will probably continue and more alfalfa, clover, mixed clover and timothy, and soybeans suitable for feeding to dairy cattle will be grown.

4. Barley will tend to replace some of the oats on the better soils.

5. Potato, apple, and peach growing on a commercial scale will increase. The farms will have sufficient acreage to warrant the use of labor-saving equipment, such as planters, diggers, sprayers, graders, storage and packing sheds. The small farm orchard and potato patch will be retained for home use only, or will disappear.

6. The trend in the production of small fruits, especially raspberries and strawberries, is upward.

7. Vegetable production will continue near the larger cities and will probably expand where roadside and farm marketing opportunities are outstanding. Proximity to a large consuming population will encourage increasing production of crops like sweet corn in which deterioration begins soon after harvesting.

8. There will probably be some increase in part time farming for industrial workers. Self-sufficing farms will continue to serve as a place of retirement for farmers as well as for industrial workers. The expansion of State-owned land for recreational and forestry uses will also tend to increase the opportunities for part-time farming in the areas adjacent to these developments.

*A mimeographed bulletin listing the names and locations of these sections with a brief description of each will be mailed free to readers of this newspaper upon request to the Pennsylvania State Planning Board, 928 North Third Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Judge James Raps Effort To Lure Roosevelt To Tour Pa.

ARTHUR JAMES
Says:

"We need a man as Governor who views this State's problems as the people of Pennsylvania see them, who has risen from the ranks, who has lived all the days of his life among the people. Above all, we need a man who feels a sense of responsibility to the people and desires to carry out their wishes instead of following some private blueprint of his own."

End Private Blueprints

"To beg permission to shelter themselves and hide their sins under the President's own reputation.

"To tell the President that the long job of lid holding now appears to be successful so far as the November election is concerned—that no indictment before the Nov. 8 election appear possible, no matter what may happen after."

The President, he added, would forever lose his reputation by coming into Pennsylvania on behalf of "an administration that is one jump ahead of a Grand Jury and perhaps two ahead of jail."

"It would mean," continued Judge James, "placing his stamp of approval upon a rotten system of government which countenanced the arrangement whereby a millionaire government contractor, Matt McCloskey, is the private banker of the Governor of Pennsylvania."

Further, he said, it would mean the man who classes himself as the "great humanitarian" would formally approve the brow-beating of "helpless women and children by political bosses."

He declared no one questioned the personal integrity of the President; that despite Mr. Roosevelt's political views "it never has been said that he has condoned graft, bribery when handling public money, nor that he has condoned graft, bribery and extortion in public office."

Should the President decide to come into the State on a political barnstorming tour, the jurist said, it would be the first time in Mr. Roosevelt's public career he would be on record "as helping frightened public officials protect themselves from investigation and punishment, from the determination of an enraged electorate that their misdeeds shall be exposed."

Bills amounting to $2090.36 were paid. The winter schedule of garbage collection has been changed to Tuesday and Friday of each week.

Mrs. John G. Fetterolf was hostess at her home in Buckingham to members of the New Hope Junior Women's Club. At the session officers were named as follows: President, Maud B. Funk; vice-president, Mabel M. Yos; secretary, Edith Thompson Lewis; and treasurer, Ruth Buckman.

Chairmen of the various committees are as follows: membership, Catharine Scarborough; scholarship, Pauline Hayes; publicity, Ruth Buckman; welfare, Audene Cosner; ways and means, Grace Lake, and program, Helen Malpas. The program committee, including the chairman consists of Mrs. Malpas, Alma Templeton, Mildred Larson, Nellie Magill, Ruth Buckman, Ida Lake, Maud Funk and Mrs. John Fetterolf, the latter sponsor of the club.

The committee announced that the first regular meeting of the club will be held on the regular meeting night, the second Thursday of October. This meeting will feature a covered luncheon. It will be held at "The Horses."

When members of Newtown school board and borough council met with the Newtown Exchange Club in the Temperance House in that borough this week, borough engineer Peffer, of Hellertown, was the guest speaker.

Mr. Peffer told of many improvements made in Hellertown, and it was pointed out there is a great difference in the population of Newtown and Hellertown and that their industries are different.

Dr. A. J. Strathle, president of the Exchange Club, introduced the speaker and welcomed the other guests.

Dr. Strathle also announced that an invitation had been received from the president of the Philadelphia Business and Professional Women Clubs to attend their convention in Philadelphia the week of October 9.

Word has been received that Dr. Edward H. Pershing, 73, of River Road, New Hope, is ill abroad. Dr. Pershing, a cousin of General John J. Pershing, was taken ill aboard the S. S. "Strathmore" during a world cruise, and is believed to have contracted small-pox. He is now in an isolation camp in Gibraltar.

Dr. Pershing has resided in the New Hope section about 15 years.

Traffic Conditions Are Discussed Here

gested Fall and Winter promotional campaigns consumed the balance of the meeting time. The treasurer's report, given by Abe Popkin, indicated a favorable balance.

In the discussion of the traffic situation on Mill street, the consensus of opinion among the members appeared to be that the problem could be met by adequately informing the public of the free parking plot in the canal basin just off of Mill street.

Members pointed out that proper advertising of such lots in other business centers eliminated all traffic problems. A committee was appointed to further attempt to solve the problem.

A committee was also appointed to investigate the possibility of having a Halloween parade in Bristol this year.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

GRAND

Errol Flynn loves Olivia de Havilland, who has a yen for Patrick Knowles, who is that well-known way about Rosalind Russell who goes for Errol—big! And thereby hangs the tale of "Four's A Crowd," the every-minute-a-laugh comedy that had Grand Theatre audiences rolling in the aisles when it opened there yesterday.

That the title is an apt one becomes more and more apparent as the amours of the handsome young quartet get more and more involved. Then in steps Walter Connolly—grandpa to Olivia, and an ill-tempered captain of industry with an all-absorbing interest in his miniature railroad—to further complicate a not altogether simple situation.

BRISTOL

Get ready for Navy Week!

Although there's nothing official in the celebration, it's being observed by the Bristol Theatre, which starting today, will present Paramount's new nautical comedy, "Give Me A Sailor," to local audiences.

The story tells of the high jinx of sailors and their officers on shore leave and what happens when they get mixed up in the rivalries and politics of a madcap San Francisco family. At the head of the cast are Martha Raye and Bob Hope, who first teamed together in the recent "College Swing" and now return to repeat their successful partnership.

Hope will be seen as a romantic goby whose chief interest lies in getting Martha married off to his brother, so that he will be in the right position to win her sister, Betty Grable.

JERSEY SCHOOLS TO AGAIN DOMINATE GRID SCHEDULES

Lower Bucks County School Teams to Play on New Jersey Soil

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Difference in Rules Are A Handicap When Playing In New Jersey

Once again New Jersey schools will dominate the grid schedule of Lower Bucks County schools as they go into their second and third weeks of the new campaign tomorrow and Saturday afternoons.

The only difference between the schedules, aside from new opponents of course, is that the Pennsylvania boys will have the disadvantage of playing on foreign soil this week, whereas they played to an amicable crowd last week. But the severest handicap for local clubs playing in New Jersey is the change of playing rules which has severely hindered both groups playing away from home against each other.

But in spite of the fact that such inter-state rivalry is to be desired, the vast difference in playing under National Federation rules and Intercollegiate rules, puts the visiting aggregation at such a disadvantage that it almost prohibits these interstate groups from waging intersectional battles.

Be that as it may the biggest tilt of the day is carded for Princeton where the little Tigers will meet Morrisville High. The Bulldogs are seeking their third consecutive victory in this contest but the strength of the home team is unknown in the Bulldog camp. Therefore, Coach Hoffman's boys are taking them for no setup and a fierce struggle should ensue.

Coach Steve Juenger and his band from Bristol High will be in quest of their initial conquest of the campaign this week at the expense of Bryn Athyn Academy. However, the game is to be played at Bryn Athyn and on foreign fields Bristol has not won a game in the last two years. Moreover, word from Bryn Athyn has it to the effect of a very much improved eleven over last season's outfit, which held Bristol to a 7-0 score at Bristol last year. Therefore, the Red and Gray lads will have to show plenty of stuff this week to down the Bishops. Coach Stan Ebert uses the tricky Duquesne system and plenty of passes which means that Bristol's aerial defense must be improved to take the tilt. Nevertheless, the Cardinals, after dropping that tilt at Roebing against Bordentown last week, have been aroused to the fact that the opposition is no pushover.

Langhorne and Fallsington will be two other local schools to take the trip abroad this week with Jersey outfits as opposition. Langhorne, with one victory under its belt over a Jersey club, seeks the scalp of the New Jersey School for the Deaf at West Trenton. Friday. The Redskins green eleven, although none too impressive in their 6-0 win over Pemberton last week, should be able to conquer the Mutes who also dropped a 26-0 decision to Trenton Catholic.

Fallsington, at the same time, will try to push another defeat, at the hands of a Pennsylvania eleven, down the throat of Pemberton High, whom they encounter at Pemberton. The Falcons, suffering from a 20-7 setback handed them by Mt. Holly, and still remembering last year's 14-0 reverse, the Cornhuskers dished out to them last year should inspire the improved Orange and Black boys to victory this week.

Coach George Reimer's Bensalem Owls will be playing in Mt. Holly Saturday afternoon in their second fray of the season. The Owls were surprising in holding Upper Merion to a 7-7 stalemate which the home club was barely able to gain, and they should be set for the New Jersey aggregation. But the Hollys big team should give them a decided edge over a much smaller Owl combination. However, a closer game than last year's 19-6 win for Mt. Holly should prevail this week.

On the same afternoon, Coach Bill Dougherty's Jenkintown Red Devils meet their toughest opponent of the

DIZZY LETS GO — A STRIKE

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1938
King Features Syndicate, Inc.
HOLLYWOOD. — Actor Ralph Bellamy is beginning to wonder if he hadn't better emulate Noah and build an ark. When the big flood struck Los Angeles early in the year, the house occupied by the star was swept away carrying all of Bellamy's possessions. The actor's loss, he says, ran to $50,000. All he was able to find of his possessions was a typewriter.

Ralph Bellamy

The other day, on the "Trade Winds" set, Bellamy was making frantic long distance calls trying to check reports that his eastern farm near Saybrook was inundated with a probably heavy flood loss there.

Looks as if Hedy Lamarr is going to rebel against the pose of languorous mystery expected of a glamor star. In the Ray Bolger party at Trocadero the other night, the screen's new sensation delighted stay-up-laters by doing a jitterbug hop with Ray. The boys in Bob Grant's orchestra, catching the festive spirit, playfully sang: "Oh, Hedy, don't be that way."

Hollywood chuckles unfeelingly over the plight of Donald Meek. Before the mild-mannered little actor has left for the "Jesse James" location in Missouri, he gave orders for his house on the north shore of Lake Arrowhead to be painted. Meek just received an outraged telephone call from his neighbor, the wealthy oil man, William Lane. What right had he, Meek was asked, to have Lane's house painted a cream color?

Now Meek has to get Lane's house back to the original shade and then to paint his own.

Robert Allen, appearing with Phyllis Brooks in "Hard to Get", can have a check for $10,000 if he will give up his screen career and go into the business of his father, Eugene B. Baehr, wealthy importer and manufacturer of school supplies. Allen in displaying the check to friends here says he has been working three years to get a movie contract and is determined to stay in Hollywood.

Gives you quite a twinge to see the wrecked condition of the old Brownstone street set at Warner Brothers. The earthquake sequence for "The Sisters" has left it a shambles. Understand it may be leveled entirely. If so, Warners can't complain about the original investment. The set, faithfully reproducing a section of Lexington avenue, was built 14 years ago for Corinne Griffith's picture, "The Outsider". Since then every company in Hollywood has rented it. The price used to be $2,500 a day. Recently it has run around $750. In all, says Warners, they have rented the set 850 times. Not bad.

Quite an oddity in the R-K-O picture, "Lawless Valley". Fred Kohler senior and junior will play father and son. They are look-alikes and both are movie veterans. Kohler, 30 years in the business and his strapping son, 10.

The U. S. army and the civil aeronautics authority are testing out a new type of radio beam perfected by Frank Eaton, a Paramount electrician. The flyers in "Men With Wings" gave it a preview test and say it's good. Advantage of the beam is said to be that it overcomes warping and has a full 360-degree radius.

Jane Withers is to get her South American vacation after all. She will do one more picture following "Arizona Wildcat" and then will leave in January to be gone for 12 weeks. Will take along a school teacher and an interpreter so the trip will have an educational value.

Kenneth Harlan, once in the big money as an actor, is writing a Hollywood cook book. Lots of stars are contributing their favorite recipes.

Mickey Rooney

The new private dining rooms at the Hollywood Brown Derby are the swankiest on the coast. They are furnished like a living room and a dining room in a mansion. Have their own private entrances from the auto park. To make it look more homey, Manager Bob Cobb spent $350 to transplant a full-grown oak tree out front. Mickey Rooney is taking Saturday afternoons off during the football season. M-G-M has agreed, though it will mean shooting around Mickey in "The Hardys Out West" . . . Jerry Bergen and Billy Gray return to Phil Seiznick's . . . Tyronne Power is signing the autographs "Ty Powers" now. Saves that much writing. . . The Roscoe Karns go on a vacation as soon as he finishes "The King of Chinatown". Will visit Mrs. Karns' old horse ranch in Higgins, Tex.

ROLPH TRIES A BUNT, BUT IT DOESN'T WORK

Robert "Red" Rolph, Yankee third baseman, laid down a nice bunt in second Series game, in Chicago, but it didn't work. For Mr. Jerome Dean, better known as Dizzy, pitching for the Chicago Cubs, made a pretty play to get the ball, tossed it to Collins and retired Rolph. Here's the play, with Dean at left. Yankees won, 6-3.

ities claimed today that their troops have cut the vital Peking-Hankow railway, causing another serious break in the communications of the Chinese forces.

The railway line was cut Thursday, 100 miles north of Hankow, former Chinese provisional capital, it was stated.

At Hankow, Chinese authorities were reported to have admitted that a Japanese detachment appeared in the vicinity of the railroad "apparently with the hope of cutting it."

The Chinese claimed, however, that they immediately rushed reinforcements to defend the line.

Occupy Fourth Zone

Prague, Oct. 7—German military occupation of the fourth zone of the Sudetenland went forward today as indications multiplied that the Czech government is following under the orbit of expanding Nazi influence. The government of Premier Syrový appealed to the army and people to reconcile themselves to the Munich agreement.

"Don't forget that this order can be used as an excuse for intervention," it was pointed out.
